

Historia: Försörjning och egendom 1600-2000

Kurslitteratur

Totalt sidantal: 1135

Större verk (721 s.)

Household strategies for survival, 1600-2000 (ed Fontaine & Schlumbohm), 200 s.

Making a living, making a difference: gender and work in Early Modern European Society (ed M. Ågren), 250 s.

Servants in rural Europe, 1400-1900 (ed J. Whittle), 271 s.

Artiklar (inkl klassiker: 414 s.)

Ågren M. "His Estate" -- or hers?: Three chapters in the history of married women's property rights in Sweden, 1350-1850. Gender and History. 2013;(3), s. 211-229 (19 s.)

Fertig, C. Stem families in rural northwestern Germany? Family systems, intergenerational relations and family contracts. The history of the family. 2018(2), s. 196-217 (22 s.)

Gaunt, D. The property and kin relationships of retired farmers in northern and central Europe. I Wall, Robin & Laslett (eds), Family forms in historic Europe, Cambridge, 1983, s. 249-279 (31 s.)

Hajnal, J. European marriage patterns in perspective. I Glass & Eversley (eds), Population in history, London 1965, s. 101-143 (43 s.)

Högman, A-k. Survival strategies late in life. Living conditions of unmarried elderly women in Gothenburg in the 1920s. Continuity and Change 2015 (39), s. 279-300 (22 s.)

McGown, V. Paternalism: a Definition. Social Analysis: The International Journal of Social and Cultural Practice. 1980, 5(6), 102 - 124 (23 s.)

Mendels, F. Proto-Industrialization: The First Phase of the Industrialization Process. The Journal of Economic History, 1972, 32(1), 241-261 (21 s.)

Montenach, A. Coping with economic uncertainty: women's work and the protoindustrial family in eighteenth-century Lyon. Continuity and change. 2020(35), s 33-52 (20 s.)

Morell, M. Subsistence Crises during the Ancien and Nouveau Régime in Sweden? An Interpretative Review. Histoire & Mesure, XXVI-1 (2011), s. 105-134 (30s.)

Moring, B. Conflict or cooperation? Old age and retirement in the Nordic Past. Journal of Family history, 2003 (2), s. 231-257 (27 s.)

Ogilvie, S. The Economic World of the Bohemian Serf. The Economic History Review vol. 54:3 (2001), s. 430-453 (24 s.)

Ogilvie, S. Consumption, social capital, and the “industrious revolution” in Early Modern Germany. Journal of economic history. 2010:2, s. 287-325 (39 s.)

Paping R & Karl, E. The rural succession myth. Occupational careers and household formation of peasants’ and farmers’ offspring around 1800. Tijdschrift voor sociale en economische geschiedenis 2011 (4), s. 44-75 (32 s.)

Van leeuwen, M. Logic of charity: poor relief in Preindustrial Europe. The journal of interdisciplinary history. 1994:4, s. 589-613 (25 s.)

Whittle, J. A Critique of approaches to ‘domestic work’: women, work and the pre-industrial economy. Past & Present 2019 (243), s. 35-70 (36 s.)